Dear parents and carers,

We've had a very full and active week here at Highshore. Thirty eight parents attended our information session on EHC plans on Monday. A number of parents commented on how good it was to have time to talk together and to network. There was a lot to talk about! Sally Brett gave a very informative presentation. Thanks to Resources for Autism, Cambridge House and Southwark LA who also attended. We are hoping to repeat this in the summer term.

A number of year 11 pupils are taking part in work experience in the dining room one day each week. They are helping younger pupils with their cutlery and trays, setting out and refilling water and providing general support.

12Ts tuck shop is up and running every Monday and Friday, The sixth form make and sell Hummus to staff every Friday lunchtime and 13M are busy painting their plant pots ready for the Christmas Fair. Many pupils are busy designing labels for a honey jar which Eversheds city law firm have asked us to produce. Eversheds will pick the winning design and are providing a prize for the winner.

Today the South London Gallery gave a special assembly about the tree. We are still waiting for the tree to be installed in the playground. Also in assembly today we presented some certificates for outstanding Art work including a certificate to Ayhan who has designed our school Christmas card this year.

Next Thursday we are running our first parent's ICT workshop. Do let Sue Perry in the school office know if you'd like to attend.

Following the success of TA Celebration Day last year, Unison have extended this year's event to include all school support staff and is on Friday 28th November. A day to celebrate 'the unsung heroes'!
